THE WAR IN THE EAST.

Several Changes Being Made in the Staff of the Chinese Army.

Reports of Fighting at Ping Yang Not Confirmed at London.

London, Aug. 27.—Central News advices from Shanghai state that General Yula, military governor of the province of Shing King, is reported to have been appointed high commissioner of the north and governor-general to assist Viceroy Li Yun, formerly a Chinese resident in Corea, who has been given command of the Chinese forces and will at once proceed to the seat of war. A hundred or more Japanese left Shanghai for their native country, and the United States consul is using his utmost endeavors to persuade those remaining to depart.

The consul fears their presence may cause complaint and endanger the safety of the city. The Chinese fleet left Port Arthur for Wei-Hai-Wei on the 22nd inst. Captain von Hanaacken, formerly aide on the staff of Viceroy Li Hung Chang, has been appointed assistant to Admiral Ting, commander of the Chinese fleet. Six thousand Japanese troops landed at Chemulpo on the 22nd inst.

Dispatches received by the Chinese legation up to noon contained no mention of the Chinese victory at Ping Yang. At the Japanese legation the officials say the report of such a victory was circulated probably by the Peking government to facilitate the war loan.

San Francisco, Aug. 22.—Yee Sang Soo, Corea's minister to the United States, has arrived in this city, en route to Seoul from Washington. On his journey overland he by mistake entered the drawing room of the Pullman car, which had been secured by a mining man, and, being ill, lay down on a lounge in the compartment. On the train starting the mining man entered the drawing room, and on seeing, as he supposed, a Chinaman reclining on the lounge, told him to get out. Yee Sang Soo did not understand English and did not stir. The man then grabbed him by the neck and threw him out on the platform. Yee Sang Soo shouted lustily, and on the appearance of his secretary, who had missed his master, he was assisted to the proper car.

AMERICAN TARIFF.

Bill Will Become Law Without Cleveland's Signature.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—The fact that Secretary Carlisle this morning sent out telegraphic instructions to collectors of customs directing them what to do in regard to putting the new tariff bill into effect is looked upon in official circles here as conclusive evidence that the president will not veto the bill. Commissioner Miller of the internal revenue bureau has sent out instruction to collectors of internal revenue at four o'clock this afternoon. The concensus of opinion is still that the bill will become law without President Cleveland's signature and by the operation of the time limitation at midnight to-night, Monday, Aug. 27th. Secretary Carlisle this morning decided that goods now in bond will be entitled to the privileges of the free list of the new tariff act.

Surprising Reduction in Dentistry Charges.

What is the use of paying $15 for a rubber plate when you can get a gold one for a few dollars more.

We will for one month from this date make a reduction of 50 per cent in gold plates. This is simply to introduce a genuine 20k gold plate to the people of Victoria.

This plate will last a lifetime and will never require repairing. People will wonder how we can do it, and probably think that inferior workmanship will be done, but we wish to dissuade you of any such notion. Our idea is to make a plate to please the public and get them to try us; consequently we must give an inducement. We will not make any money on these plates, but will feel assured that every plate we make will bring us others. Remember the price will remain as stated for one month only from September 1st to October 1st.

Dr. Findley has charge of this branch and his ability as a mechanical dentist is too well-known to need further mention.

A HUGE MASTODON.

Skeleton Found in Marshy Ground Near Sheridan.

Dunkirk, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Workmen were digging ditches in marshy ground near Sheridan, three miles from here, yesterday, when they came upon the skeleton of a mastodon eighteen inches below the surface. Only the head has yet been laid bare. The skull and all the parts uncovered are in an excellent state of preservation. The skull measures five feet six inches across. A tusk uncovered is five feet long and six inches in diameter at the butt. One of the teeth, which is polished, weighs four pounds.

SHOOTING AT OTTAWA.

Lieutenant Blanchard Distinguishes Himself at Rideau Range.

Ottawa, Aug. 27.—The Dominion Rifle Association matches opened on the Rideau range to-day. The weather was cool but pleasant. The light was bad for shooting and the scores in the first match, the nursery, were not very good. Gunner Short, of the Montreal Garrison Artillery, took first prize in this match—five shots at 500 yards, open to newcomers—with 23 points. Lieutenant Blanchard of British Columbia, took $10 with 22 points, and Gunner McRobbie of British Columbia, $6, with 22 points. Lieutenant Shillington of the Manitoba team, got $3 with 15 points. Private Taylor, also of Manitoba, got $3 with 15 points. In the Hamilton Powder Company match Captain Spearing of Sherbrooke took first prize, $20, with a possible 35 points. Bombardier Martin of British Columbia, $8, with 32 points; Lieutenant Blanchard of British Columbia, $5, with 32 points; Private Shunaman of the Manitoba team, $5, with 31 points; Macklin of Manitoba, $4, with 31 points; Captain Mitchell of Winnipeg, $4, with 31, and Sergeant McKay, Winnipeg, $4, with 31 points.

CABLE NEWS.

United States Officers Do not Attend the Southampton Banquet.

Rome, Aug. 27.—Queen Margaret went to Gresoney valley in the province of Turin several days ago to visit Baron and Baroness Pecoz. On Saturday her host gave in her honor an excursion into the Alps. During the ascent he dropped dead before the Queen's eyes. She was nearly overcome and became hysterical several times before reaching home. She still suffers from extreme nervousness. The King was summoned to her early yesterday. An examination of Baron Pecoz's body showed that he died from heart disease.

London, Aug. 27.—Admiral Erben declined the invitation of Southampton's mayor to attend the municipal banquet with the officers of the United States cruiser Chicago. His reason is that the Chicago is too short of officers to spare a sufficient number for such an occasion.

CANADIAN DISPATCHES.

Booth's Lumber Yards at Ottawa Destroyed by Fire.

Montreal, Aug. 27.—H. M. S. Tartar left port this forenoon on her return to Quebec. She will be followed to-morrow by the other vessels. As yet the hour has not been fixed, the ships awaiting orders from the admiral, who is at Quebec. The Canada after taking coal will proceed direct to Halifax and will remain there until September 16th for orders for special service on which she has been detailed.

The third of September, labor day, will be observed as a legal holiday and the court house and all public buildings will be closed.

Ottawa, Aug. 27.—The actual loss by the Booth lumber yard fire last night is now placed at $50,000. The insurance amounts to $45,000 and is divided among the companies as follows: The North British Mercantile, $10,000; Manchester, $5000; London, $5000; Union, $5000; Northern, $5000, and Lancashire, $5000.

THE ROYAL CITY.

Dominion Government Insults Westminsterites.

New Westminster, B. C., Aug. 27.—The insult put upon the board of trade and G. E. Corbould, M. P., by the fisheries department at Ottawa in ignoring the repeated telegrams re the extension of the salmon fishing season is the talk of the town to-day. The government's action will result in Mr. Laurier's getting a reception he little expects. The season has been a poor one and the fish began running ten days later than usual. Another week's fishing meant a great deal to the four thousand fishermen on the Fraser river.

Something will be heard from the district municipalities soon. Appropriations of $1000 voted at the last session of the legislature are not paid yet, though nearly two months ago the various councils had work done to the amount of the appropriation, and the men employed are now pressing for their pay, which they need badly. Just before the elections each municipality was officially notified that the amount would be available after July 1st, but it is not available yet. The people in the country are beginning to think there is some truth in the empty treasury story.

The town is full of fishermen to-day cashing cheques and spending money. The canneries are all busy paying off.

If the hair is falling out, or turning grey, requiring a stimulant with nourishing and coloring food, Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer is just the specific.

A deck hand and fireman were asleep on board at the time and lost all their possessions and nearly lost their lives. They cannot account for the flames and say they had no fire of any kind on board the boat. The boat ran between Baltimore and Rochester last summer and between Bridgetown and Philadelphia this summer. There was some insurance on the vessel. Captain Smith Godfrey and son, the owners, were away at the time.

TO SEARCH FOR TREASURE.

Company Organized to Explore a Mexican Cave.

Lampazos, Mexico, Aug. 27.—A company has been organized here and permission has been obtained from the state government to explore the cave recently discovered south of here for hidden treasure. According to documentary evidence, brought to light a few months ago, about $500,000 in gold is secreted in the cave, having been placed there by a bandit chief nearly a century ago. Seven men have already lost their lives from fire damp within the past few months while attempting to search the cave for treasure. The new company will go prepared to overcome all such obstacles.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Biennial Meeting of the Supreme Lodge—A Great Crowd in Washington.

Washington, Aug. 27.—The biennial convention of the supreme lodge of the Knights of Pythias of the world and the biennial encampment of the uniform rank opened here to-day. For months a reception committee, composed of prominent citizens and representing all the varied professional and commercial interests of the city, has been engaged in making preparations for the event and the arriving Pythians will find that little for their comfort and convenience has been left undone. The lodges of the uniform rank will camp, in accordance with a vote of congress, on thirty acres of the Mall forming a square around the Washington monument. It is noteworthy that Washington is the birth city of the order, the first lodge having been established here in February, 1864, in an old building that is still standing. The leading features of the encampment, which will last for two weeks, are the sessions of the supreme lodge, the street parade and review of the uniform rank by President Cleveland and the members of the cabinet, a dress parade on the White House grounds, a competitive drill between 45 infantry and cavalry divisions of the uniform rank and a reception and ball. The order of Pythian Sisters of the World and the Pythian Sisterhood, an organization of seceders from the parent organization, will also be in session for two weeks. The strength of the Pythian order at the present time is shown by a table compiled by Supreme Chancellor W. W. Blackwell, which is corrected to June 1. It is as follows: Alabama, 7400; Arizona, 555; Arkansas, 4351; British Columbia, 1269; California, 10,650; Colorado, 5007; Connecticut, 5475; Delaware, 1154; District of Columbia, 1412; Florida, 1770; Georgia, 4640; Idaho, 851; Illinois, 33,870; Indiana, 33,460; Indian Territory, 883; Iowa, 21,704; Kansas, 14,450; Kentucky, 5790; Louisiana, 8486; Maine, 9741; Manitoba, 333; Maritime Provinces, 971; Maryland, 7621; Massachusetts, 11,448; Michigan, 10,558; Minnesota, 5861; Mississippi, 5631; Missouri, 19,625; Montana, 1706; Nebraska, 6828; Nevada, 828; New Hampshire, 3765; New Jersey, 12,840; New Mexico, 1025; New York, 21,001; North Carolina, 2387; North Dakota, 816; Ohio, 30,045; Ontario, 1555; Oregon, 3261; Pennsylvania, 47,543; Rhode Island, 31,721; South Carolina, 3843; South Dakota, 2020; Tennessee, 7763; Texas, 12,261; Utah, 906; Virginia, 4365; Washington, 4735; West Virginia, 5164; Wisconsin, 6835; Wyoming, 714. Total membership, June 1, 1894, 443,615. Gain in membership during year, 29,671. Increase in number of lodges, 34.

The citizens have made a generous display of national bunting in honor of the visitors, while in addition flags and streamers with the well known insignia of the order and of the uniform rank may be counted by the thousands. The work of the various committees has been well done up to the last moment, and the arriving Pythians, with a committee to meet them and another to escort them to quarters already prepared, are realising, tired and travel stained as they are, that there is something in the old adage anent "a friend in need being a friend indeed." The camp on the square around the Washington monument, some thirty acres in extent and the use of which was granted by congress, is dotted with white tents which give to the Mall a picturesque appearance. A commodious grand stand has been erected in front of the executive mansion, and from which the President and his cabinet, members of congress, ministers from foreign countries, and other special guests will review the parade to-morrow. The camp has been named "George Washington," and the assignments have been made according to the seniority of brigade commanders. The following revised list of assignments was given out by Major-General James R. Carnahan this morning:

For the next two weeks the supreme lodge of the world of the Knights of Pythias will be in session. There are some 500 delegates who are quartered at the different hotels. Supreme Chancellor Blackwell and the retiring supreme officials arrived yesterday and this morning. The sessions will be held in Marcini's hall, on E street, north-west, near 9th, formerly known as Temperance Hall, and the birthplace of the order. It will be the last meeting of the Pythians under its roof for it is soon to give place to a modern structure.

The ladies are almost as much in evidence as the knights, for the encampment has an interesting and picturesque feature in the form of the order of Pythian Sisters of the World, and its supreme temple will have daily sessions for the week or more. Then there is a seceding order called the Pythian Sisterhood, which has a little strength. Peace may be restored between the warring sisterhoods at the present conclave.

TROUBLE AT BLUEFIELDS.

Nicaragua to be Held Responsible for all Offences to Americans.

London, Aug. 26.—The British foreign office has recived confirmation of the report of the arrest at Bluefields of Hatch, the consular agent of Great Britain. The British government is in communication with the government of Nicaragua in regard to the recent occurrences at Bluefields. At the United States embassy today it was stated that no information had been recived for three weeks in regard to the trouble in the Mosquito territory. James H. Roosevelt, the secretary of the United States embassy, thought that the action of the Nicaraguan government in arresting Mr. Hatch was extraordinary. General Barrios, the Nicaraguan envoy who is on his way here, in addition to endeavoring to settle the differences between Nicaragua and Great Britain and arranging for a moderation of the Managua treaty, will seek to persuade the British government to be represented by a minister instead of a consular agent.

Colon, Aug. 26.—A schooner has arrived here with seventy refugees from Bluefields, Mosquito territory. They say the Nicaraguans imprisoned eight American citizens and several British subjects, including the vice-consul. The country is described as depopulated and business as having been stopped. The refugees also report that more Nicaraguan troops are arriving at Bluefields. This display of force is announced to be caused by the determination of the Nicaraguans to resist foreign interference with their affairs.

New York, Aug. 26.—Advices from Bluefields, evidently later than those received at Colon, say the Nicaraguan troops returning from Bluefields reached Greytown yesterday, bringing eight foreigners as prisoners. A British warship arrived at Greytown yesterday evening.

New York, Aug. 27.—The Tribune's Washington special says: Definite information regarding the Nicaraguan policy of the administration was received from an official source yesterday by a representative of the Tribune. Briefly expressed, the recognition of the complete sovereignty of Nicaragua in the Mosquito reserve is the policy which has been agreed upon. Neither Chief Clarence nor his successors in any event is regarded as having any authority or rights separate from or independent of national control. Nicaragua is considered the only treaty power in the strip and the sole source of government there. With her all relations concerning American interests in the reservation are to be had, and Clarence and his advisers are to be rated as purely local authorities, subordinate to and constantly under the restriction of Nicaragua in all matters. For acts of omission or commission with respect to Americans and their interests in the strip Nicaragua is to be held responsible. Contracts and concessions now in force with Americans in the reservation are to be upheld, and the national government is expected to restrict the same and to take such steps as may be necessary to their maintenance. To the greatest extent consistent with international courtesy Nicaragua is to be urged to sanction by law or proclamation the freedom of religion which now obtains in the reservation. An effort will also be made to induce Nicaragua to give a guarantee that no excessive or unusual taxes will be levied. Relative to the grants and concessions now held by Americans in the reservation, Nicaragua has been informed that this country regards them as binding on the national government. They are considerd in each instance as a contract, so to speak, voidable but not void, under the new arrangements. They are to be kept in force, except when, by mutual agreement, they become no longer operative. Whenever, for any reason, a concession is withdrawn by Nicaragua without the consent of the party holding the grant, a suitable indemnity is to be provided. On this point the administration is said to be firm, and should cases arise where injustice is done to Americans on the reservation vigorous demands are to be made upon Nicaragua to right the wrongs. The administration is counting on England's assent to the new programme. It has come to the knowledge of the officials that Great Brtain is less interested in Bluefields than has been supposed. The Tribune's informant being asked as to whether the president and Secretary Gresham favored the building of the canal, the speaker said that he was not familiar with Mr. Cleveland's views on the subject, but the secretary regarded the project as one of much importance to the country, which in time would certainly be carried out.

THRIFTY GERMANS.

Some Interesting Figures as to Money They Have Invested.

The thrifty Germans are piling up wealth in the form of cash and securities at a rate which promises to make them of great importance as a creditor nation.

In view of the information sent to the state department at Washington and just given publicity, the course of the German government in sticking close to the British government on the silver question is not suprising. Germany has to a marked degree the same interests that Great Britain has in opposing anything which tends towards inflation. Herr Miquel, the Prussian minister of finance, according to the report received by Secretary Gresham, estimates that the people of Prussia have at the present time $7,075,740,000 in stocks, bonds and loans. It is calculated that 25 per cent. of the wealth of Germany is invested in stocks and bonds and that this will probably rise to 40 or 50 per cent. in the next generation. Professor Schmoller, a leading authority on economics in the empire, estimates that of the 49,500,000 people who make up the German empire two million and a half to four million are in receipt of incomes from invested capital, and of these about one-half hold public securities. In Prussia, in the last ten years, the deposits in the savings banks are claimed to have augmented about $44,020,000 per annum, and throughout Germany probably $71,400,000 to $95,200,000, from which it is inferred that the German nation is laying up from $476,000,000 to $595,000,000 annually, one-half of which goes into securities. In the last ten years there have been in the aggregate about $952,000,000 to $1,190,000,000 worth of foreign and $1,904,000,000 worth of domestic securities put upon the German market.

With reference to the question whether Germany is wise in taking so much foreign paper Professor Schmoller remarks that it is a healthy symptom and indicates a thriving state of the people and that, although much money has been lost thereby, it has been, on the whole, a valuable experience and the means of placing the German stock exchanges on equal footing with those of London, Paris and New York, a position which they did not occupy 25 years ago. This has been an advantage to the whole nation and to every workman in it, for the reason that with the exportation of capital, there has been simultaneously a quickening of the industrial exports of the country and an employment of German industry and enterprise abroad. The losses of the country from investments in foreign securities have been great, but they are argued to have been amply offset by the profits realized. From 1860 to 1892 the Germans are reckoned to have made $238,000,000 in Russian and American securities alone, independent of all indirect benefits which may have accrued to the general interest of the country through the connections made in the handling of such stocks and bonds. Germany now holds probably $2,380,000,000 worth of foreign securities, which is presumably double what it possessed ten years ago. The interest and dividend on these add about $119,000,000 of wealth annually to the country. This has a marked effect on the well being of the country and its trade balance. What the country has lost in recent years through unfortunate investments in foreign securities has probably been about $200,000,000, which, as remarked above, has ben fully compensated for by gains made.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THE HANDY REVOLVER.

An Emplyoe Shoots his Employer Down on the Street.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 25.—Alexander Carr emptied a five chambered revolver into H. O. King on South Bond street this afternoon, then tossed the pistol away, folded his arms and waited for a policeman. King was well known here and was connected with prominent families. Carr had been in his employ at a pyrites mine which King operated near Villa Rica, in this state. Carr says that King owed him money and the shooting grew out of the indebtedness. A great crowd collected before the smoke cleared away, and many who knew the dying man proposed to lynch Carr, who stood pale and nervous, with folded arms. A policeman came up and drove the crowd back. King was sent to the Grady hospital, where he died at six o'clock. Carr made a statement, in which he said that King drew a revolver and was about to shoot him.

OUR BRITISH BUDGET.

Fourth Jubilee of the Bank of England—Edmund Yate's Sensitiveness.

Cheap Emigrant Fares—Cost of the Coal Strike—Training Zebras.

Almost unnoticed has the fourth jubilee of the Bank of England gone by. It was founded in June of 1694, and the many vicissitudes of fortune it had experienced from that date until 1844 would fill a large volume. In this year most important changes were made in the banking system of the country; the bank charter act was passed by Sir Robert Peel, whereby the monopoly of a bank not issue was practically conferred on the Bank of England; the issue department and banking department were made separate, the number of notes to be issued was limited, and for all bank notes in circulation over and above a certain amount the bank was required to have gold or silver in its coffers to the full value of these notes. It is in consequence of these changes that the people's phrase, "as safe as the bank," has become almost a proverb. Before this period the bank could not always command this confidence, its notes were occasionally at a discount, and, like its contemporaries, it was liable to suffer from a panic. As showing the extent of the business at present the salary and wages bill is not far from three hundred thousand pounds sterling a year! The old servants' pension bill is between forty thousand and fifty thousand pounds a year.

The late Mr. Edmund Yates was a deeply sensitive man. I have been told that his sensitiveness actually killed him, for the constant terror in which he lived of some one on the World making him responsible for such another libel case as that which lamied him in Holloway jail weakened his heart till it killed him. This is the only reason his friends can assign for the otherwise inexplicable wasting away of this fine athletic figure of a man. His sensitiveness followed him to the grave. He was so afraid of being buried before he was dead that in his will, which has just been proved, he gave directions that immediately after his death his jugular vein should be severed, for which operation a fee of twenty guineas was generously allotted. The precaution was, however, superfluous, for Mr. Yates had also decided that he was not to be buried at all, but to be cremated, and you must know that a person in a trance being thrust in a crematory would die with as little pain as an entranced person whose jugular vein was cut.

Lord Rothschild has been trying the experiment of breaking zebras to harness. He owns three now in the hands of a trainer in South Kensington. Much difficulty was experienced with the animals at first, but they were "educated" by being harnessed with a quiet pony one at a time. On Monday morning one zebra alone was driven in a light dog cart through the streets, and he trotted past a steam roller without winding.

A picturesque and animated scene presented itself at the Prince's landing-stage on Saturday morning. The ordinary frequenters of the stage were increased by bunches of immigrants waiting to be taken off to the Umbria, which was to sail that evening for New York. Special interest was taken in her departure, as it is the first voyage made by any vessel from this port at the reduced steerage rates of the Cunard company. They were motley groups enough those waiting emigrants. There were men and women and children of all nationalities, standing about their heaped up luggage. Some looked tired and dirty, and the jargon of their foreign tongues, broken often enough by homely English, impressed one with something of an idea of the confusion of the tongues at Babylon of old. Some of the foreigners had resided in England for many years, and like most of the Britishers among them, had been tempted to cross the Atlantic by the low rates. For two pounds many of them had been conveyed long railway journeys, were to be taken to New York, fed on the voyage, and supplied with eating and bedding kits. A calculation, based on reliable information, reveals the fact that the Cunard company, in many of the cases, would receive only seventeen shillings of the two pounds, after defraying the cost of railway travelling, cost of kit and agent's commission. Nearly three thousand miles and fed for seven days for seventeen shillings!

Those who see the Prince of Wales but rarely have been, I am informed, greatly astonished by the change that has taken place in the appearance of his royal highness. The water or some other "cure" for an excess of adipose tissue would seem to have done its work in a most effective manner. It is almost difficult indeed to recognize the royal patient, who has quite lost his customary jolly bearing. These triumphs over nature have their penalties and as the figure shrinks the animal spirits decline.

We may now estimate the cost of the great coal strike of last year in tons of coal. It appears that the total output of the United Kingdom dropped from one hundred and eighty-one million tons in 1892 to one hundred and sixty-four million tons in 1893. The principal decrease was in England, where the output declined from one hundred and twenty-seven to one hundred and thirteen million tons. In Wales and Scotland the output declined by a million and three-quarter tons in each instance. These figures are from the official return issued yesterday week.

The better class residents of St. John's Wood who can afford it are leaving London in boats to avoid contact with what seems to be the most virulent epidemic of smallpox known in the metropolis for seven years past. Up to now its sphere has been circumscribed to a rather poor neighborhood, but there are not wanting indications that it is spreading towards a zone bounded by Regent's Park on the one side and the Northwestern main line from Euston on the other.

Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone have just celebrated the 58th anniversary of their wedding, an occasion rendered the more auspicious by the remarkably vigorous condition of Mr. Gladstone's health, despite his recent operation, and the prospect that another of minor significance may be shortly necessary. By the aid of a weak solution of atropine he can see to write and to read good print moderately well with the left eye, which has not yet been operated on, and which is unhappily affected by miniature cataract.

The largest price ever paid for a picture sold in London by auction was realized at Messrs. Christie's, when some remarkable examples of Sir Joshua Reynolds were disposed of. Lady Betty Delme (sister of the Earl of Carlisle), by Reynolds, was put up at 5000 guineas, and after keen bidding was sold for 11,000 guineas, being purchases by Mr. Charles Wertheimer for, it is understood, Baron de Rothschild. The day's sale realized £40,000.

The Emigrant's Information Office announce that information has been received from the Cape to the effect that a large number of clerks and shop assistants have recently emigrated to the colony, and are now without means and without prospect of employment. Intending emigrants belonging to these classes are strongly warned not to go to South Africa at the present time.

At a meeting of the directors of the Lancashire and Yorkshire railway company just held, it was decided to recommend the proprietors to declare a dividend for the past half year at the rate of 3 1-2 per cent. per annum, carrying forward a balance of about £22,000.

The house of commons select committee on the volunteer question recommends power to call out in case of imminent national danger or great emergency; that volunteers be subject to military law whenever under arms and in uniform; that the secretary of state have increased powers to assist in the erection of drill halls; that the volunteers be exempted from jury service. The committee does not suggest any alteration regarding the volunteers aiding the civil authorities in riots such as at Featherstone.

After the brilliant wedding function of the member for the Strand, the London marriage market has been fairly quiet, but next week comes the union of the season, between Lord Egerton of Tatton and the Duchess of Buckingham and Chandos. The bridegroom is a great favorite in society, and has married before, having lost his wife in 1882, after a long wedded life of 35 years. He has an only daughter, who is married to Viscount Butt. The Duchess is an accomplished lady, a well known figure in court circles.

Many people, visitors as well as citizens of Liverpool, will be glad to hear of a new postal facility in connection with the transatlantic mail services. MARK TWAIN GOES ABROAD.

Saw His Name on the List and Decided to Take That Boat.

Probably the most inconspicuous passenger on the American line steamship Paris which sailed from New York on Thursday morning for Southampton, was a languid man with fluffy gray hair, who looked as if he had made a mistake in taking passage in the cabin. He carried an old umbrella in one hand and a crush hat done up in a newspaper in the other. A few persons recognized him as Samuel L. Clemens. He apparently was travelling as Mark Twain, professional humorist. He was somewhat late; in fact, if he had been a few minutes late he might have had to walk to Europe or take the next steamer. Somebody suggested to him that the Paris was ready to sail. He answered with his familiar drawl:

"Well, if the boat's ready to go I guess I am. I am going over to see my wife and family at Etretat, where they are supporting a couple of doctors. You see over there when a doctor gets hold of a good patient he keeps him. They generally take you to a small place and keep you there. Then they pass you along to a friend in another place, and they keep you moving like the Wandering Jew. My wife has been doing this for three years.

"I don't dare to have even a headache after I land on the other side. But I guess I'll bring her back when I come in October.

"This is the tenth voyage in the past three years. I'm getting real foul of sailing now. After the first five or six days I rather enjoy the trip."

Mr. Clemens started up the gangplank. A deck hand, who thought the gingham umbrella hardly in keeping with a first-class ticket, stopped the humorist and asked:

"Are you a passenger?"

Mr. Clemens stammered: "I—I—don't—know; but I rather think—so. Wait a minute and I'll see."

Then Mr. Clemens looked over his passenger list and exclaimed triumphantly: "Yes; I'm a passenger. Here's my name on the list."

The deck hand said something about [illegible] as Mark waved him a stately farewell.

HOW HE GOT HIS AD IN.

A certain religious congregation in England wanted to procure new hymn books, but they were very poor and could not afford to pay for them at the ordinary prices. They understood, however, that a certain great advertising house, a business house that made patent medicines, was willing to furnish hymn books at a penny each, if they would allow some advertisements to be inserted in the books. They thought that would be no special harm, that they might have a few special pages of advertisements bound up with Watts and Doddridge. They agreed to the proposition. The books came duly, and got down to the church on December 24. On Christmas morning the model Christians, who had no thoughts of anything but religion, got up to sing. Their pastor gave out by the first line a very familiar hymn. Immediately the congregation arose to their feet, and in a few seconds they were aghast to find themselves singing:

"Hark the herald angels sing
Beecham's pills are just the thing,
Peace on earth and mercy mild;
Two for man and one for child."

Arsenic and quinine are dangerous drugs to accumulate in one's system, and it is to be hoped that these poisons, as a remedy for ague, have had their day. Ayer's Ague Cure is a sure antidote for the ague, is perfectly safe to take, and is warranted to cure.

CAPTAIN BOWER IN TIBET.

Captain Hamilton Bower, an Englishman, has recently returned from a daring trip of exploration in Tibet, the "Roof of the World." Tibet does not welcome foreign explorers, and Captain Bower's trip was full of incidents. His plan was a bold one. He made his final preparations at Leh, in Kachmirian Tibet, but he kept the object of his journey a profound secret.

Captain Bower's Chinese passport for travelling in Chinese Turkestan was of no value in Tibet proper. Captain Bower's plan was to push forward into Tibet without being noticed until he had gone too far to turn back. He and his companion, Dr. Thorold, represented themselves as merchants on their way to China and succeeded in maintaining this character among the few nomads whom they met until they reached responsible officials within a few marches of Lhasa. At this point Captain Bower and Dr. Thorold came out in their true characters and refused to be sent back by the way they came. The officials did not allow them to proceed to Lhasa itself.

The plan of these explorers involved weeks of the hardest travelling through an unknown district lying to the north of Tibet, of which the maps give only scanty details. They lived for weeks at an elevation of from fifteen thousand to eighteen thousand feet on a plateau known as the Chang. It was thinly populated, but it abounded in game. From the north of Lhasa they came to lower elevations and more populous districts, and came out at last on the main Chinese road through Bethany and Tathany to the Yang-tse-Kiang.

Captain Bower found the religion of the Tibetans a strange worship. In speaking of it he says: "In no country is religion so much en evidence. Every man has a praying wheel in his hand, which he continually turns, even when on horseback. * * * But all this outward show means nothing but a gross superstition; in no way do the people regard their religion as being a rule of life inculcating virtue and morality; all they think is that by observing certain rules benefit—but they know not what benefit—is obtained, and by neglect of them, calamities, but they know not what calamities, would ensue." Captain Bower thinks that the religion question is at the bottom of the rooted objections of the Tibetans to the intrusion of Europeans in their country. The lamas objected to his entering the monasteries for fear he should see the wealth accumulated in them. Polyandry, if not a part of their religion, is sanctified by custom.

China considers all of Tibet as in some sense belonging to her, and she would undoubtedly cry "hands off" to any other power that attempted to invade this country. As a matter of fact, the Chinese residents have very little influence, and do very much as the lamas direct.

Is a dangerous condition directly due to depleted or impure blood. It should not be allowed to continue, as in its debility the system is especially liable to serious attacks of illness. A BY-LAW

To Amend the Revenue By-law, 1893.

Be it enacted by the Council of the Corporation of the City of Victoria as follows:

1. Section 7 of the Revenue By-Law, 1893, is hereby repealed and the following section is hereby substituted therefor and shall form part of the said by-law.

7. The procedure for enforcing sections 2 and 3 of this by-law and the schedule referred to therein shall be those prescribed by the Municipal Act, 1892. In all other cases every person who is guilty of an infraction of any of the provisions of this by-law shall, upon conviction thereof in a summary manner before the police magistrate or any two justices of the peace having jurisdiction in the said city, be liable for every such offence, and shall forfeit and pay a penalty not exceeding fifty dollars and costs, and if such penalty and costs be not paid either immediately or within such period as such police magistrate or justices may appoint, the same may be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender, and in default of sufficient distress the offender may be imprisoned with or without hard labor for any term not exceeding three calendar months unless such costs and penalty be sooner paid."

This by-law may be cited as the "Revenue By-Law Amendment By-Law, 1894."

"EX UNO."

The methods and practices of the lands and works department under the present regime are well illustrated by the projected wagon road to the Kettle river. For many years the settlers in the Kettle river and Boundary creek neighborhood have asked for a road, as they were cut off from the remainder of the province except by a way which led them through a portion of Washington state. Very slight attention was paid to their requests and complaints until the general election became "dangerously near," when a vigorous attempt was made to show by means of votes, promises and even work that the through road would be completed this year. The elections are now over, and the long-suffering people have been disgusted by the announcement that work has to be suspended, "for want of funds." The amount voted for the work, $32,000, should in all conscience have been quite sufficient to complete it, but those who have seen anything of the methods pursued by the department will be in no way surprised at the failure in this particular instance to make both ends meet. Mr. Thomas J. Hardy, writing to the Advance, throws some further light on the failure. He says:

In the first place a superintendent was appointed of roads and bridges for what is known as the lower country, from Penticton to Cascade City. Now it is a well known fact that there was already a road from Penticton to Fairview (25 miles) and there was a small amount of money spent to keep this road in repair. Such being the case, he could have started to build the road from Fairview bridge on the Okanagan to Grand Prairie, via Camp McKinney. The fact of the matter is, all the summer was wasted last year fooling around Dog Town, and nobody benefited. The next thing undertaken was to fill up Vaseux lake. Who ever heard of a sane man undertaking the responsibility of filling up a body of water sixty feet deep? Not even on the largest railroads would any man with horse sense think of such a thing. Well, in the neighborhood of five thousand dollars has been thrown into that lake, and that much more would not make as good a road as six hundred would do in side cutting along the same place. Any way at the present time it was not necessary to have that part of the work done. It only benefited a few at Dog Town, while hundreds of people south and east have still to travel out of British Columbia into Washington and back again. You will remember that the chief commissioner of lands and works was having a little outing, and the people that he met made it appear to him that the road to Camp McKinney would be better under way, so he made a splurge and started the road for Camp McKinney. A very short time after snow commenced to fly, and it froze up of course. Road work had to stop. Winter nearly past, the superintendent was sent down through the country to locate a route over Boundary mountain, where four feet of snow were on the summit. A good time to locate a road, you will say. Well, when he was leaving for Vernon he was told when the snow would be off the summits, and he said he would come down, locate the route and commence work as soon as possible. April, all of May and part of June passed, and the election was getting dangerously near. Along comes Mr. Vernon with Mr. Schubert as his guide. The route was located and men were put to work in six days and a team was sent after the tools. Well, the most of the tools have not got here as yet. I suppose they are still on the road. Now the distance from the Okanagan bridge to Camp McKinney is something like twenty-four miles. Five miles of this was built in 1893, and on the 15th of August this year they are three and one-half miles from Camp McKinney; that is sixteen and one half miles built from the 8th of May, with a force of from twenty to thirty-eight men employed on a road that could be easily built for $400 per mile; that is, provided it was handled in proper shape.

These and other statements show that the funds would have been ample if wisely and properly expended—that is, if the whole of the affairs of the department were correctly administered. Perhaps the Kettle river people are not yet without ground for hope, for it is within the range of possibility that the petition against Mr. Graham may bring on a new election, and in that event they would get at least more fervent promises from Mr. Vernon. The Advance in reference to the same topic says: "The expenditure of the appropriation for the Camp McKinney and Kettle river wagon road, without any beneficial results having been accomplished, is a sad state of affairs. The people of Kettle river, however, (who of course are the principal sufferers) would do well to treat the matter quietly until it is seen what action the government intend to take in the matter, as the departments in Victoria can scarcely yet be aware of the facts of the case. It is scarcely possible that such definite and oft-repeated promises as made by the Hon. Mr. Vernon that the road will be pushed through this year, will not yet be made good, although made on the eve of election."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Ottawa dispatches relate that R. R. McLennan, M. P. for Glengarry, was banquetted by the people of the town of Alexandria because he persuaded the Dominion government to locate a reformatory there. In these days men have many paths to greatness open to them, but the surest way an M. P. can take is to "get something" for his constituency out of the public treasury. This remark applies also to M. P. P.'s in British Columbia.

The World is greatly exercised because the Times corrected an obvious error in a Washington dispatch which made it appear that the commission to investigate sealers' claims for damages would sit in Vancouver. Sir Julian Pauncefote and Secretary Gresham are not at all likely to have arranged for the holding of the inquiry in Vancouver when practically all the claimants reside in Victoria. If they did they would be as hopelessly given over to stupidity as the World itself.

NANAIMO NEWS.

Paying Seam Struck in the Northfield Mine.

Nanaimo, Aug. 26.—According to a recent prospect in the main level of the Northfield mine, there appears to be a paying seam struck at last. The search for the same will be prosecuted further but it is unlikely that the company will open up the mine to any extent for many months. The quality of the seam is superior to any other coal that enters the San Francisco market, and as soon as the coal trade is in a more settled condition stalls will be started from the levels.

Complaints are numerous with respect to persons calling for mail at the post-office, and when they find they are given the wrong mail, neglect to return it. It cannot be expected that the clerks know every individual who calls for mail, and the only way to ensure getting one's mail is by having it sent to the address of the residence on the envelope. Although there are many persons with the same name they do not generally reside in the same house.

The coroner's inquest in the case of Olaf Hansen, returned a verdict that deceased died from heart disease.

The Nanaimo team were somewhat disappointed in being defeated by the J. B. team of Victoria. They felt too confident of victory.

The prophecy that the Nanaimo militia would collapse when Dr. Praeger resigned, has proven correct, as detailed in a dispatch received from Ottawa on Saturday.

The bark Wilna was towed in on Saturday, having been 14 days coming up from San Francisco.

The Horticultural and Agricultural Society meeting on Saturday night was poorly attended so, as usual, the few who were there were left to attend to the various matters in connection with the coming show.

A scandal, resulting from the improper relations between J. D. McNab, surveyor, and Miss Louisa Wood, wound up with a tragic scene in the Owen Sound court house where Judge Creasor sentenced McNab to five years in the penitentiary on the charge of fraud brought against him by Miss Wood. The judge dealt severely with the turpitude that characterized the conduct of the prisoner, who, though a married man, did not hesitate to seduce a girl, who reposed the utmost confidence in him. He said it was necessary to impose such a sentence as would be a punishment to the prisoner and a warning to the community that this sort of thing cannot be tolerated. When the prisoner heard this sentence he clapped his hand tightly on the top of his head as if stunned.

DEATH OF CAPTAIN CLARKE.

He Passed Away This Morning After a Long Illness.

Captain William Raymond Clarke, one of the oldest and best known residents of the city, died this morning. He had been very ill for some time, and his death was expected. In fact it was thought that he would die several weeks ago. The deceased came to British Columbia over 30 years ago as chief gunner of H. M. S. Forward. He left the service here and shortly afterwards became commander of the old steamer Sir James Douglas. He retained that command for a number of years. Later he engaged in the business of auctioneer. He was also surveyor for Lloyds, and harbor master for the port of Victoria, and always took an active interest in shipping matters. The deceased was a native of England and was 60 years and 7 months of age at the time of his death. A wife and two children survive him. The funeral will take place on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock from the family residence, 53 Michigan street, and at 9:30 from St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

Brief Locals.

—The city police have got the occupants of the city jail at work whitewashing everything whitewashable about the place.

—The horses offered at the postponed sale at the North Dairy farm will be brought to town and sold at the public market on Friday night.

—There will be a meeting at the city hall this evening of representatives of the various secret and benevolent societies to arrange for societies day at the coming exhibition.

—Thomas Bowness, formerly a grocer of this city, but late of Comox, died at the latter place yesterday of rheumatic fever. The deceased was a native of Langdale, Westmoreland, England, and 45 years of age. He had resided in the province for 5 years and leaves a wife and three children. The family reside in Victoria. The funeral will take place at Comox to-morrow.

—A sample of the Elk Lake water sent to Chicago for analysis as to the desirability of its use for brewing purposes by the Victoria-Phoenix Brewing Company, has evoked a very satisfactory reply. The water is pronounced to be absolutely free from any bacterial contamination, soft and pure. It is regarded by those who tested it as too soft for brewing, and the recommendation is made that it be placed in a tub and filtered through a double perforated false bottom, the latter to be covered overhead with coarsely crushed gypsum rock. The letter and analysis have been handed over to Mayor Teague. The latter has been doing a lot of quiet investigating in water matters, and has found how by forcing the water into the receiving boxes at a high pressure all the sediment may be riled and water as black as ink sent to the city mains. He is outspoken on the way the place has been neglected. He expects the analyses of the different samples sent east every day now, and once satisfied in his belief that the water is good he will be out for a general clean-up at the lake and in the mains, a new system of filtering, and a general arrangement that will be permanently good.

—Charles A. Rattray, agent of the Great Northern, has resigned to accept another position, and will be succeeded by C. D. Steevens, who occupied the office before when Mr. Rattray was on leave. Mr. Steevens will bring his wife here from Seattle and make Victoria his home.

COMPETITION IN BEER.

To the Editor:—There is scarcely any business made prosperous by cutting prices to spite others engaged in the same line of trade. The brewers of Victoria are selling below cost just now to see how much injury they can do each other. Two breweries on Fort street are closed down through selling below other brewers. Now the war has commenced between the lager breweries. The price has dropped from ten dollars per American barrel to seven. This means more debts and mortgages on the owners and the working man that drinks the beer is not much benefitted by it either as he has to drink a much inferior article.

BREWER.

IS NOT DEAD.

Mother Mandelbaum Still in the Land of the Living.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 27.—A Sunday newspaper published a story yesterday in which it was stated that Mother Mandelbaum, the notorious fence, who lived for a long time in New York, and who was reported to have died recently in Montreal, is not dead. It says the report of her death was a ruse to conceal her further movements. A coffin filled with stones is said to have been shipped to New York and represented as containing her body. The police always believed that Mandebaum was no other than Mme. Fulckes, a very shrewd woman who conducted a most fashionable millinery store here for a short time a number of years ago. The police suspected her and began to watch her, when she suddenly disappeared, and about the same time Mrs. Mandebaum began to be heard of in New York. Mme. Fulckes has been seen in this city within the last week.

WILL SPEAK ON THE TARIFF.

McKinley to Deal with the Gorman Bill On September 8th.

Somerset, Pa., Aug. 27.—Governor William McKinley of Ohio is on a two weeks' visit to his brother Abner, whose summer residence is here. The framer of the McKinley bill is hard at work on his speech, to be delivered September 8, when he is to open the campaign for Reed in his Maine district. When asked his views on the present condition of the tariff, he said: "I will not be interviewed a single line on the tariff until after my speech on September 8. I am to address the farmers at Auburn, N. Y., on September 5th, but I will not mention any political subjects in my discourse. If I spoke now of what I thought of the Gorman bill I would only be telling you the most important details of my speech on September 8."

—If nothing happens George McAlpine can credit himself with a full year's free board for 1894. In January he was arrested for having stolen goods in his possession and got three months. He was a refractory prisoner and did not get a minute off his time. In May, shortly after being released, he was arrested for an offence of a similar nature, and again got three months. He was released on Saturday, and immediately proceeded to get uproariously drunk. He [illegible] the Hotel Victoria, created a disturbance, and when asked to leave showed fight. Constable Kavanaugh had a hard time landing McAlpine, and had to convey him to the lockup in a carriage. In the police court this morning he was charged with creating a disturbance and was convicted. He was fined $20 and $1 costs, or in default two months' imprisonment with hard labor. He did not have a cent, and an order for his commitment was immediately made out. With the year still young, McAlpine has eight months' board earned.

—The lecture on "Theosophy and Heredity," by Dr. Griffiths, given last night in Institute hall, was attended by a still larger audience. If the attendance and attention manifested at these lectures are true indications, there is great interest taken in Theosophy by Victorians. To-night the last meeting will be held in Institute hall, when questions will be received from the hall and answered by Dr. Griffiths. Already a number of questions have been handed in, and an interesting time is anticipated for to-night. The local branch of the Theosophical Society has taken a hall at 26 Broad street, where free public meetings will be held every Saturday night. Lectures and papers will be given, followed by questions and answers. The large and complete Theosophical library of the branch will also be located in the hall and books, magazines and papers will be on the tables. The hall, library and reading room will be open to the public every evening from 8 to 9.30 o'clock, and all are cordially invited to avail themselves of these opportunities. The library is free and books will be loaned for two weeks.

—Harrison has produced two or three pretty good jokes this season. Perhaps the best yet is on W. H. Redmond. One day last week, with the rest of the Victorians and other guests at the St. Alice, he went twenty miles up the lake in the launch on a fishing trip. It was a long, hard journey, and on the trip back everybody found a place to lie down and sleep. Mr. Redmond crawled into the tender and lying down went to sleep. Half way home the tender was missed and all sorts of fears for Mr. Redmond's safety were felt. The launch put about, and five miles up the lake the boat, with Mr. Redmond thankful for his deliverance, was found. He had no oars and was helpless. A sea had begun running and the motion of the boat awoke him. There is a horrible suspicion that someone let the tender go loose. Someone played quite a prank on Charles McDonald. A telegram announcing the burning of his home at Beacon Hill with all its contents was sent to him. He believed it until he got home.

—The third annual tour of "Friends," Edw. Milton Royle's brilliant comedy-drama which plays an engagement here Wednesday and Thursday seems to be making a grand triumphal march to success. In every city in which it was produced this season the press announce crowded houses and enthusiastic approval by brilliant audiences. Wise managerial policy may in a measure account for this, for instead of cheapening the production as so many managers foolishly do after a play has made a successful reputation, the management has each season made the attraction more expensive by engaging the highest salaried artists money could procure. It was acknowledged that the players who last season interpreted the principal roles could not be well improved upon, so the management have only made some minor changes for the better. Harry Allen, E. E. Lyons, and Selena Fetter Royle will be seen in the roles they have made famous. "Friends" will receive a hearty welcome here for no greater artistic success was made last season than by this interesting play.

—Mayor Teague has given notice on the bulletin board of his intention to recommend to the council the introduction of a by-law to amend section 45 of the Ross Bay Cemetery by-law, but he may change his mind about bringing the matter before the council in just that shape. There is a little story in connection with the matter. The section of the by-law deals with deaths from infectious diseases and prevents the removal of a body without a certificate from the health officer or a medical man. That is all right, but a later section says that the medical man must have been in attendance on the case at least three days. The physicians of the city, or at least some of them, declare this to be an unjust discrimination in favor of the medical health officer. The first the mayor heard of the case was through the law firm of Davie & Hunter, in whose hands the matter was placed. There seems to be an opinion around the city hall that any reasonable request made directly to the council would have been readily granted. However, something will be done in the matter, as there is no desire to discriminate against anyone.

YESTERDAY'S FIRE RECORD.

Firemen Have an All Night Fight—A Thousand Dollar Blaze.

The fire record for August continues to creep up, and it already exceeds that for any other month in the history of the department. The men were kept continually busy from 11 o'clock yesterday morning until 8 o'clock this morning. Yesterday morning a fire broke out on the rocks on which the old Pemberton residence is situated, on Fairview road, near Ross bay. This the men put out without much trouble, but they were soon afterwards called out for a fire at the same place, this time several houses being in danger. The chemical engine was taken out, and with buckets and garden hose the fight was kept up until 8 o'clock this morning, when the fire was finally put out, having several times been in close proximity to a row of houses facing Ross bay. There is no fire hydrant in the vicinity, so hose could not be used.

Last night at 10 o'clock another bright blaze attracted the attention of the department, but it was found out that the fire was outside of the city limits and too far for the apparatus to be taken. Chief Deasy went out, but only found the embers of what had been a two story residence near Mount Tolmie, owned by William Hatch. The house was not occupied, and how the fire started is a mystery. It was valued at about $1500, and was insured for $1000 in the Alliance company.

ACCIDENT TO THE QUEEN.

The Steamer Still There When the U. S. S. Patterson Passed Yesterday.

News was received from the north, via the Sound on Saturday evening, that the Alaskan excursion steamer Queen had grounded on Gordon's Point, the northern extremity of Cormorant Island, not far from Alert Bay. She went on Wednesday night, and when the steamer Chilcat passed there the next day it was thought that she would float at high tide, and when the United States survey steamer Patterson passed yesterday the big vessel was still on the rocks, and the passengers were living in Spencer's cannery at Alert Bay and on the steamer. Captain Carroll declined the proffered assistance of the captain of the Chilcat, and told the officers of the Patterson that they could not render any assistance unless they had diving apparatus on board, which they had not. The steamer City of Topeka was momentarily expected and Captain Carroll preferred to wait until she arrived. This course was no doubt followed on account of the Topeka belonging to the same company, preventing any claim for salvage. If the Topeka does not succeed in floating the Queen she will bring her passengers down and divers will be sent up to examine the vessel and decide what will have to be done to float her.

It is impossible to say what damage has been done to the Queen, but it appears to be the opinion of those who have seen her that she has a big hole in her bottom. There would not, however, be any difficulty in beaching her if she is floated.

There was a thick fog at the time of the accident, and her pilot was picking his way through the winding passage, although the ship was going at her usual rate of speed in those waters. The danger was seen just too late to save the ship from going on the rocks, but in time to prevent her from running directly across a rocky reef, in which case she must certainly have broken in two. The tide was out at the time of the accident, and the seriousness of the affair is shown by the fact that an eleven-foot tide did not budge her from her position. She is leaking badly and the pumps are kept constantly going.

The Queen is on her last trip north and carried a small passenger list, only about eighty excursionists. There was a regular panic on board the ship when the accident happened. All the passengers were in bed, of course, and the shock brought them all to the deck in an instant, and only the splendid work of Captain Carroll and Purser Rogers prevented demoralization among them.

FRASER RIVER RELIEF.

The Question as It May Strike People in the East.

Mr. Alexander Begg, in a letter from Toronto on the 19th instant, says:

"I see by the issue of the Times of the 11th that it has come to pass just as I expected and predicted, and that there is a good deal of suffering in the Fraser valley, without the wherewithal to relieve it. I think the $50,000 or more that we could have secured when the floods were on would come in very handy now. The British Columbia members at Ottawa were right at the time, and if they had not been checked in their efforts many a farmer and rancher in the valley would be, I have no doubt, happy to-day instead of struggling to get over their difficulties. However, there is no use crying over spilt milk. If, as it appears from the report of the relief committee, there is necessity for action now that action should be taken without delay. I don't think the having declined assistance once will stand in the way to any great extent when the circumstances are explained, although the same amount of money cannot be raised now that could have been when the floods were doing the damage. Still I am of opinion that enough could be secured to tide the settlers over if a statement was published that help was really needed. It is all bosh to suppose that accepting aid at such a time is going to hurt the reputation and credit of the province. It will hurt it far more if some of our settlers are allowed to suffer."

A SAD ACCIDENT.

An Invalid Child Dies from the Effects of a Fall.

The home of P. McPhadden, 36 Elizabeth street, was on Saturday the scene of a sad accident, resulting in the death of little Harry McPhadden. The child was an invalid, and blind as well, and for two years used a chair on wheels, which he propelled around himself. On Saturday he accidentally pushed himself off the porch in the rear of the house and fell to the bottom of the stairs. Weakened physically, he could not stand the shock and injuries sustained by the accident, and yesterday he passed away. He was just past seven years of age, a good, patient child, and liked by all who knew him. The exact nature of his injuries were not determined, although all that medical skill could furnish was used to relieve his sufferings and save his life. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the family residence named above.

EUROPEAN GOSSIP.

Efforts Being Made to Prevent the Spread of Cholera in Germany.

Position of the British Cabinet on the Abolition of the House of Lords.

Berlin, Aug. 26.—If credence can be given to popular report, the position of Doctor Johannes Miquel, the Prussian minister of finance, is shaken in consequence of the differences of opinion which have arisen between him and Chancellor Caprivi, and which have found public utterance in mutual acrimonious attacks in the semi-official journals during Emperor William's absence from Berlin. Shortly after his return to the capital the emperor determined to put an end to this open animosity, and it is now declared upon good authority that he intends to personally mediate the dispute, which threatens to have a disturbing effect upon the government policy.

As is known, Emperor William is not so enamored of Dr. Miquel's financial policy how as he previously was, and it is generally believed that if his majesty fails in his efforts to bring about a reconciliation between the minister of finance and the chancellor, the former will have to go. In the event of the retirement of Dr. Miquel, other changes in the cabinet are spoken of, the most significant being the possible inclusion in the ministry of Count Bellestrom, as a concession to the centrists, who have long expressed a desire for representation in the cabinet, which Emperor William is now said to be favorably considering.

On his return the Emperor ordered the full reports to be furnished him with reference to the measures taken to prevent the spread of cholera. Hardly a day has passed without his majesty having some expert or some administrative officer engaged in combatting the disease. For instance on Wednesday last Dr. R. Koch had an audience of several hours with the emperor, who entered into the details of the preparations necessary and who displayed great concern at the possibility of a recurrence of the pest on a great scale in Germany.

It transpires that the Emperor took with him to England, on board the imperial yacht, a gift for his newly born cousin, the son of the Duke of York. The gift was in the shape of an exquisite little carriage in which the royal infant is to take his airings. The vehicle is in the form of a shell, covered with pale prisatic shades, contrasting with the pale blue velvet used to line the shell. The latter is furnished with a beautiful coverlet of rich crimson velvet, worked with the arms of the Guelph and Hohenzollern families. The baby carriage was sent to White Lodge, at Richmond, from which place the delighted mother sent her thanks to the emperor.

A small but noteworthy action of Emperor William has caused a great deal of satisfaction in the army, and has testified to the genuineness of his expressions of disapproval of the petty tyranny of certain officers of the army to men of lower rank but of superior class. It has been a well known fact that the schoolmasters especially were subjected to humiliating treatment when called out among the reserves for periodical training. An aggravated case of insult and ill-treatment of a school teacher has just resulted in the imprisonment of the officer guilty of the offence. The latter's sentence was submitted to the emperor for confirmation, and his majesty in so doing wrote on the document a marginal note saying: "I did not believe it possible that I had such an officer in my army." The note of the emperor is looked upon as tantamount to cashiering the officer, whose name was forthwith struck off the army list. This will undoubtedly serve as an effective warning to similarly disposed officers against brutal disregard of the feelings of the men in their charge.

Inquiries made at the various American consulates in Germany show that the American tariff legislation has thus far had no effect upon trade with the United States. No increase of business due to the Havemeyer bill is reported in any quarter.

The towns of Schwalm and Waiterebruck, in the Vogelberg mountains in Hesse were wrecked to-day by a heavy wind storm and water spouts. The towns were flooded and trees were snapped off or torn out by the roots.

At Obeschnon, a cart together with the horses attached and the driver were lifted some distance in the air by the wind and then dashed to the ground. The driver and horses were killed.

An additional reason given here for the countermanding by the Czar of the order for the Russian army manoeuvres at Smolensk, is that the Czar's physicians have expressed a very strong wish that his majesty should subject himself to as little fatigue as possible because of the unsatisfactory condition of his health.

A [illegible] cyclone swept over the shore of the Sea of Azov, working immense damage. In some instances entire villages were swept into the sea. Many steamers were sunk or driven on shore and wrecked, and it is believed that at least one thousand persons perished.

London, Aug. 26.—Many members of the majority in the house of commons will refuse to address the voters in the fall campaign throughout the country because the ministers have not pledged themselves to attack the house of lords and its power of veto. Such refusals have seldom, if ever, been given before for, whatever the discontent in parliament may have been, the ministerialists have not allowed it to interfere with their party duty during the recess. The reason given by the ministry for not declaring its policy against the house of lords is simply that it has none. The cabinet is divided on the question. Rt. Hons. John Morley, chief secretary for Ireland, H. H. Fowler, secretary for India, Lord Spencer, first lord of the admiralty, and Arthur Ashland are preparing to abolish the lords' veto power. Lord Kimberley, of the foreign office, Postmaster-General Arnold Morley, [illegible], the lord chancellor, and the Marquis of Ripon, colonial secretary, prefer a less radical policy. Lord Rosebery, Sir William Harcourt and Mr. Asquith, the leaders in the cabinet, simply sit on the fence and invite the rest to join them there. They wish to drop the question for the present, and undoubtedly have cogent reasons for ignoring the issue. Some of these reasons are purely tactical. All three ministers are reported to have said that it would be impossible to deal drastically with the lords before a measure for the payment of members should be enacted by the commons, or at least provision should be made to pay election expenses from the public funds. The condition of the treasury is another argument for reticence. The party's coffers are almost empty. Very few rich men are left in the organization and they are steadily growing fewer in consequence of the party's drift toward socialism. Although this drift is more noticeable among the labor Liberals and Radicals, it is believed to be involving the other elements of the organization. Heretofore the rich Liberals have been in the habit of making large annual donations to the party puree from which the expenses of the poorer candidates were paid. This has been seriously disturbed by the importunate demands of the radical press for an advanced programme.

Presumably the result of the Radical agitation will be that there will be plenty of Liberal, Radical and Labor candidates, but no money to pay their election expenses. Many Liberals of the middle class are anxious for a compromise programme. They regret the increasing political divergence of rich and poor, and are opposed to the proposed surrender to the extreme elements in the party.

The British manufacturers of armament and ammunition resent greatly the stringent enforcement of the foreign enlistment act in view of the Chinese-Japanese war. It seems that both China and Japan are ordering warships and ammunition from firms in the United Kingdom, and that each is laying information at the foreign office against the other.

Publisher Heineman has asked for subscriptions to a fund for the support of the late Major LeCaron's family. The profits from LeCaron's book concerning his work as government spy were small and his widow is in want.

CATERPILLARS IN PROCESSION.

Spring having arrived, each community leaves its winter home and prepares to set out into an unknown world. On leaving the nest they form a procession in single file, each caterpillar in immediate communication with the one preceding and the one following it. In this manner they descend the tall pine and reach terra firma. From this habit they acquire the local name of "Chenille Processionnaire," or processional caterpillar. Their principal object now is to bury themselves in the sand; and to achieve this some distance has often to be traversed before a spot suitable for the purpose can be found. Especially is this true when the pine tree happens to be situated in the streets or gardens of Arcachon; and in such a case an interesting and rather amusing sight may be seen, when a procession consisting of some hundreds of the insects, and perhaps fifteen or sixteen yards in length, wends its way slowly along the road.

Let us detach two or three from the middle of the line—thus dividing it into two parties—and watch the result. The last of the foremost portion, feeling the loss of his neighbor, immediately stops, and the action is communicated all along the line until the vangnard is at a standstill. Meanwhile the leader of the rear portion redoubles his speed, and in a short time has caught up to the foremost party, and the touch being communicated the while procession resumes the march with as little delay as possible. When a suitable place has been found, the party forms into a group, and by a gentle wriggling motion digs a hole in the soft sand, in which the chrysalis state is attained.—Chambers' Journal.

THE FEELING IN STRASBURG.

Uncompromising Hatred to the Rule of Germany.

In Strasburg there is the Ligue Patriotique, which may number some hundreds of members in the city. The raison d'etre of this secret society is to restore Alsace to France, and it is animated by an uncompromising hatred to the German rule. Nothing gave such vitality to this body as the repressive measures, and notably the law of passports, which Germany unhappily adopted some years ago. These unhappy measures undoubtedly threw back for years the Germanization of Alsace, and if persisted in might have been disastrous. Happily they have been absolutely discarded and forever, and the Ligue Patriotique now exists, I believe, more as a pious opinion and a sentiment than as an active propaganda.

If you enter a shop in Strasbourg, especially if the shopkeeper be middle-aged, it is probable that he will address you in French. This is partly because he thinks it is more distinguished. It also partly arises from the fact that most likely he only speaks Alsatian, and not German, and he is a little ashamed [illegible] have spoken to many of them, and their testimony is practically the same. "I was born a Frenchman; I have served in the French army; I should like to live and die a Frenchman. Apart from that, I cannot say that I have much to complain of. The law is just and the administration of it is fair and equal, so we do not pretend to be martyrs." This is a not uncommon type of middle-aged Alsatians, and especially of Strasburgers. On the other hand, there is another class, becoming more and more numerous, especially among the younger men, who say, "It is true I was born under the French government, but I am not a Frenchman now. I was always German by descent and race and language, and now I feel myself to be a German, not only politically, but also in feeling and sentiment."—The Contemporary Review.

A Racking Cough

Cured by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Mrs. P. D. HALL, 217 Genessee St., Lockport, N. Y., says:

"Over thirty years ago, I remember hearing my father describe the wonderful curative effects of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. During a recent attack of La Grippe, which assumed the form of a catarrh, soreness of the lungs, accompanied by an aggravating cough, I used various remedies and prescriptions. While some of these medicines partially alleviated the coughing during the day, none of them afforded me any relief from that spasmodic action of the lungs which would seize me the moment I attempted to lie down at night. After ten or twelve such nights, I was and had about decided to sit up all night in my easy chair, and procure what sleep I could in that way. It then occurred to me that I had a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took a spoonful of this preparation in a little water, and was able to lie down without coughing. In a few moments, I fell asleep, and awoke in the morning greatly refreshed and feeling much better. I took a teaspoonful of the Pectoral every night for a week, then gradually decreased the dose, and in two weeks my cough was cured."

Short Talks on Advertising

The use of illustrations in advertising is becoming more and more general and more and more intelligent. Their chief merit lies in the fact that they show the article pictured as it looks in actual use. If the advertisement is about shoes, the picture is of a man pulling on an easy shoe, or of a dainty, stylish woman lifting a pretty and shapely foot. The illustrations are always suggestive and always well drawn. I may as well say here that I do not think much of alleged humorous cuts that are used more or less all over the country—the ones which run to puns and "cuteness." They may attract attention, but attracting attention isn't the best that an ad can do. A comic cut isn't convincing. It doesn't tell anything, or prove anything about the man or the goods advertised. I don't believe that such ads sell goods. The English idea is very largely the use of some pretty picture irrespective of its subject, or its relation to the thing advertised. The idea in this case also is to attract attention. I think it is wrong. A cut should be used merely to illustrate the advertisement, and not as the advertisement itself. Illustration should be subordinate. In ordinary, daily paper advertising the cut should be small. I like outline cuts about an inch to an inch and a half wide, with reading matter set down one side. Generally speaking, advertisements being truthful statements, illustrations draw attention to and emphasize them. Placed in a good medium like the Times, they are read and business follows.

NEWS OF THE INTERIOR.

Purchasing Kootenay Ores for Shipment to Swansea.

Revelstoke Mail.

H. Pellew Harvey, who recently returned from England, has been commissioned by the owners of the Swansea smelter to purchase ore for them. He has already secured several hundred tons and is negotiating for more. Mr. Harvey thinks better provision should be made for the agent-general at London, and that a mining bureau should be established where reliable information could be obtained.

The quartz claims on Carne's creek which have been so far located are all contact veins, and are remarkable for their width. None of the assays so far made exceed $22 in gold per ton. There is no question about the immense size of the veins or that the ore bodies are very large. Further development in this gold-bearing formation will be watched with considerable interest, as there is every reason to believe that the Carne creek placers are equally as rich as those on French and McCulloch creeks.

Some magnificent specimens of gold-bearing pyrites were sent to Mr. Holdich for an assay from Trout creek this week. The samples were taken from a lead which is said to be of immense size. The assay gives $200 to the ton.

Twelve miners from Nova Scotia went down on the steamer Lytton on Tuesday. They are engaged to work three claims near Nelson which were purchased by eastern capitalists last spring. They were in charge of the company's manager.

A strong mining company was formed in Revelstoke last spring, comprising ten of our prominent citizens. The company has recently recorded three claims on Carne's creek, located by John Boyd. A meeting was held at the station on Tuesday when the business touched mostly on financial matters. It is proposed to prosecute works on their claims with all possible speed, and from the immense surface showing there is little doubt that these properties will be ranked among the dividend-payers at no distant date.

A correspondent writing from Thompson's says: "Mr. N. T. Edwards, who has been doing development work on the Snowshoe mine, arrived at Thompson's to-day. While working on the Snow shoe he struck a lead of gold-bearing quartz four feet wide, carrying $110 to the ton. Every man in the vicinity has caught the gold fever, and are out prospecting for gold quartz. Lardeau creek is lined with men looking for quartz and placer ground, and I have learned from trustworthy sources that considerable quantities of yellow dust is being taken out, although the water is still rather high. One good feature about this camp is that those who have claims are sticking to them. Joe Bisette and Dan Savoy and partners have flumed the creek above the canyon, and from prospects think they have a stake in sight. They got ten dollars in one pan of dirt the other evening. Another party has just come in, and reports finding on Pete Walker's claim, the True Fissure, a vein of gold-bearing quartz 40 feet wide. The samples are now at Thompson's hotel, and there are hundreds of tons of it lying loose.

Confidence is now entirely restored in the Lardeau, and everyone is looking forward to good times.

While Mr. Ferguson was digging potatoes on his ranch at St. David's he found three small nuggets in his pan. The gold at St. David's must be up to the grass roots.

Kamloops Sentinel.

The people of Lytton have passed a column resolution demanding a bridge across the Thompson river and the construction of the Lillooet wagon road.

Mrs. Howse was driving to lower Nicola last week, accompanied by Mrs. Askew of Victoria, when the harness broke and the horse got frightened and ran down the hill at the side of the river leading to Armitage's, crossing bridges, and turning the twists and bends in the roads in a marvellous manner. Mrs. Howse held on to the reins with all her strength and succeeded in holding the horse until he stopped, when the harness dropped off. Happily Freddie Howse was riding horseback and was able to hold the horse until the two ladies got out. It is a wonder the horse did not go over the embankment or overturn the buggy, in either case the ladies must have been hurt badly, if not killed. Mrs. Howse had her baby with her and also her little boy Charlie. Both ladies were greatly shaken up.

Midway Advance.

There was a good clean-up on the Carmody mine, Camp McKinney, last week.

John Thornton has completed five hundred feet of wing dam on Boundary creek, and commenced sluicing yesterday.

The latest assay by Mr. Gibbs of unpicked ore taken from the Stemwinder shaft, at a depth of 25 feet, ran $139.40 in gold.

Eighty tons of concentrates from Camp McKinney are being shipped to Tacoma via Penticton. The teams are travelling via Sidley's and Osoyoos through the States.

Mr. Geo. Rumberger has made a new location east of the Knob hill. The character of the ore appears to be the same as the rest in Greenwood and the surface showing is big.

Mr. King, of the Cariboo mining company, is making the necessary arrangements for working the hydraulic claim on Rock creek.

Mr. Atwood is prospecting the Oro for Mr. James Douglas, and the open surface cuts disclose what may yet turn out to be a very fine vein of ore, at least present indications point to such a result.

Mr. Schofield, who is doing assessment work on the Number Seven, in Atwood's camp, is taking out good ore near the old shaft. A new shaft is also being sunk on the claim on a three foot vein. The ore is galena carrying gold and silver.

The miners in the district feel very sore over the road work being stopped. As one gentleman put it, "to have the cup placed to your lips and then rudely dashed away, just as you are about to drink to the health, wealth and prosperity of the country, is too much even for a hardy miner used to all kinds of disappointment to bear."

On the summit of Boundary mountain, a mile and a half north of the old Dewdney trail, between the Skylark and White's camp, Mr. W. T. Smith has a promising claim called the Lookout, which he located last May. The ledge is three feet in width, and carries free gold on the surface, which turns into sulphurets deeper down. Two fifteen foot shafts have been sunk on it. The ore samples $20.

The fact that the wagon road will not be completed this season will be a serious hindrance to sending exhibits from Kettle river to the Vernon show. Enthusiasm does not go so far as to pack specimens of mineral and exhibits of fruit, grain, etc., over trails.

The fire on the east of Boundary creek having crossed Norwegian gulch and burned over the country between the two creeks, is liable to run into the timber to the north. It may do a great amount of damage to the miners, and with the assistance of a little wind to fan it, find its way across the mountains to Grand Prairie, which would give the people of that settlement good cause to bless, or rather curse, the individual who, it seems, wilfully started the fire along Boundary creek.

The through wagon road over Boundary mountain, although uncompleted, is finished within a quarter of a mile of the Helen and Capital Prize, the two comparatively recent strikes which were bonded by Mr. Sudam. The ore is rich enough to be shipped, and probably will be this fall. The ledge has been exposed on the surface for 1300 feet. The Helen is owned by Symonds and Wallace and the Capital Prize by Humphrey and Lind.

We are informed that the project is entertained among several strong mining men to erect a smelting plant on the Columbia river, somewhere north of Northport, but on the Canadian side of the line, where the ores of the Nelson, Slocan, Trail creek and Boundary creek districts could be handled together. The idea is that the latter ores, containing a large percentage of copper, could be used in the reduction of the former, there not being sufficient variety in the Slocan and Nelson ores or those of the Trail creek district alone. The Trail creek ores also, we understand, do not contain sufficient copper to matte themselves. If such an enterprise were undertaken, however, ores from this district would of necessity have to be shipped via the States in bond, there being no through road or means of communication of any kind, outside of one trail, on the British side, between the east end of the district and the Columbia river.

There is not a single money order office south of Kelowna. This fact has been pointed out in this paper before. The post office authorities are proverbially slow in meeting the wants of this section of the interior, and no great haste in supplying these requirements can be expected of them. If, however, such a district as South Okanagan or Kettle river were situated on Vancouver island, or at the coast, there is no doubt that half a dozen money order offices and a proper mail service would have long since been conceded to it. That the people of Kettle river have from time immemorial been obliged to pay for their own mail serice to Marcus, in order to obtain proper communication with the outside world, is nothing short of a disgrace. There is no reason why money order offices south of Okanagan lake and a through mail route from Penticton to Marcus should not be established, beyond the fact that the Dominion government, through their officials, have chosen to deliberately ignore this part of the province. Probably on the eve of the next general election this district will receive some attention. But that sort of thing is getting played out.

FASHIONS IN SHOES.

A Novelty in Men's Footwear That Promises to be Popular.

The latest novelty in men's footwear is an innovation on the narrow toe. It is, in fact, the narrow toe turned up. Instead of being made on a flat last with a long narrow toe, the last has about three-quarters of an inch turned up about half an inch from the end. The fact that away in the middle ages the turned-up toe was known and was gradually "improved" till it reached such proportions that it had to be attached to the legs of the wearer by fastenings, may not have any bearing on the new innovation, but it is curiously suggestive of the adage that "extremes meet"—barbarism and civilization. It is even said that the latest "wrinkle" in men's footwear will be introduced into shoes for women next year.

One of the best selling shoes of the past spring season for women's wear was a common sense, glace kid top, and is made over a last extremely pointed. If course, it is not necessary to say that by sealskin is not meant the expensive fabric that goes into the costly garments of wealthy women. Yet it is a sealskin, but of a far ruder and less expensive kind. The leather is soft, porous and elastic, and fits closely and snugly to the form of the foot. The tannage is sumac. Several of the best houses making the very highest classes of work will produce them rather generally for autumn wear. They will be chiefly made with the side goring, and when pulled on the foot will afford comfort and ease, with almost glove-fitting exactness.

Among the line of samples shown by a manufacturer for the coming season is a man's lace shoe with winged side tip, made over a razor-toe last, and for which the manufacturer prophesies large sales. The style of the shoe makes an additional charge necessary to cover the cost of extra material. This extra charge is figured at 25 cents per pair. The claim for the shoe is greater durability, as the upper is really a double one. Independent of this consideration, another, which will have great weight with the buyer, is that the shoe is stylish.—Shoe and Leather Facts.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

Some Good Sport at the J. B. Athletic Club's Regatta on Saturday.

Maclure Wins the Clay Pigeon Championship — Yachtsmen Drowned.

There was nothing to mar the pleasure of those who attended the J. B. A. A. regatta on Saturday afternoon, the sport being kept up until after six o'clock. The junior single sculls for the Mallandaine cup was won by H. B. Haines, his opponent, T. Geiger, fainting when half a mile from the finish. Geiger was in the lead at the time, having overtaken Haines, who made the best start. Time 10:47 1-2. The tandem canoe race was won by G. F. Askew and J. Watson in 5:9 from A. S. Gore and E. Munro. J. Watson won the Peterboro canoe upset race, H. F. M. Jones finishing second. The best race of the day and the one in which most interest centered was spoiled by a boating party getting on the course and expecting the competitors to go around them. The race was between the Geiger and Widdowson crews. On account of Geiger haging fainted in the single scull race, W. Scott went stroke. This mixed the crew up, and Widdowson got a good start, but the others soon pulled up and the two were side by sile when Geiger's crew had to stop rowing on account of the obstrucion. Widdowson's crew won in 5 min. 5 sec. D. O'Sullivan' G. F. Askew and E. Mallandaine sarted in the senior single sculls. Mallandaine, through a misunderstanding, took the mile anl a half course. O'Sullivan won in 4:55. Askew being a good second. W. Scott and J. Watson with Miss A. O'Sullivan as coxwain won the dingy race, the young lady giving her crew the advantage of the very shortest course from start to finish. D. O'Sullivan and G. F. Askew, with Miss J. O'Sullivan as coxwain, were second; H. B. Haines, E. G. Billinghurst and Miss E. McMicking third, and L. B. Young, A. H. Finlaison and a coxwain whom the boys dubbed Mike, fourth. On account of the failure of the wind, the canoe sailing race had to be called off after the canoes had gone about a hundred yards in as many minutes. G. F. Askew, J. Watson, D. Jones and C. E. Bailey won the four paddle canoe race in 4:50; D. O'Sullivan, W. P. Perkins, J. H. Austin, and A. O. Finlaison being a good second. The tilting match was won by H. C. Macaulay and R. Robertson, who had a very deep canoe. They "downed" Hibben and Wollaston after those two had defeated Carimel and Kurtz, Dodd and Young, and O'Sullivan and Jones. Then came the race of the day, with Indian war canoes, between crews from the Canoe and James Bay clubs, the latter winnig. The crews were: J. B. A. A.—G. F. Askew (buck), J. Watson, D. O'Sullivan, W. Scott, D. Jones, J. H. Austin, J. E. Wilson, J. W. Wilson, W. P. Perkins, W. J. Mackay, C. E. Bailey, H. Dodds, J. Anderson. V. C. C.—E. P. tit(buck), E. Brammer, H. Crane, C. A. Godson, F. W. Galpin, A. S. Gore, F. Higgins, J. P. Hibben, H. C. Macaulay, Ross Eckardt, J. H. Riggs, F. Wollaston, F. G. White. The Canoe Club team think the Bays had the best canoe and are anxious to meet them again. J. R. G. Bullen, J. E. Wilson, J. H. Austin and W. Scott took part in the duck hunt. Wilson and Bullen catching the ducks after a hard swim.

THE GUN.

J. C. MACLURE IS CHAMPION.

The 100-bird match for the championship of British Columbia was shot at Oak Bay at the Union Gun Club's traps on Saturday and was won by J. C. Maclure, who made the excellent score of 93. The conditions were splendid and some excellent shooting was done. Mr. Maclure broke the provincial record in winning the championship. F. S. Maclure was second with a score of 88. The latter got the last 46 birds straight, and with his brother broke 48 out of the last 50 birds. Mr. Short, who was third with a score of 85, did well on the first 50. Otto Weiler made 70, B.H. John 68, and F. H. Hewlings 62. Mr. Maclure, the winner, will receive a neat gold badge inscribed "Championship of British Columbia, 1894."

THE TURF.

DIRECTUM AND ALIX.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Orrin A. Hickock, the driver of the champion trotting stallion Directum has issued the following:—challenge to the owners of Alix: "To Munroe Salisbury and Morris J. Jones: Dear Sirs—I hereby publicly offer to match Directum, 2:05 1-4, against your mare Alix, 2:05 1-4, for a race of mile heats, 3 in 5, for any amount not less than $2,500 or more than $10,000, said race to take place over any mile track that you may select either in Boston, New York, Philadelphia or Chicago, at any time before October 15 of the present year, except the week of the New Englander Breeders' meeting, September 23 to 29. The judges of the said race to be chosen one by you, one by myself, and the two named to select the third. Half the amount of the stake to be posted as a forfeit in the hands of any responsible party. (Signed.) Orrin A. Hickock." Geo. Hankins, proprietor of the Harlem race track in this city, where trotting and pacing will be introduced the present week in connecton with running, said last night that he would give $2,500 for such a race, or if any other association thought it could pay more, then he would raise any responsible offer that might be made. Another track manager wired an offer of $5,000 added money for the race. Negotiations are still pending.

ATHLETICS.

HAYWARD WINS FROM HARRISON.

Hayward, of Vancouver, won the general athletic contest from Harrison, of Victoria, at the Caledonia grounds on Saturday afterday. It opened with a 220 yards hurdle race, which Harrison won by a foot; time 30 seconds. Harrison won the quarter mile run by three feet in 70 3-4 seconds. Hayward won the 100 yards run in 10 3-4 seconds, beating Harrison three feet. Hayward won the 300 yards race in 36 seconds. Hayward won the broad jump with 17 ft. 7 1-2 in. against 17 ft. 1 1-2 in. This gave four events and the match to Hayward.

THE WHEEL.

SATURDAY'S ROAD RACE.

The following letter from T. G. Moody, Jr., gives a very good account of the race to Rocky Point on Saturday:

"In connection with the above race, which took place on Saturday, the 25th, from the V. & S. Ry station to Race Rocks and return. It is my opinion that it was won after a hard struggle. I may say that every man rode a hard race and well deserves credit, although only four out of eight of the competitors arrived home in good condition. I was station at about 22 miles from the starting point, anl after waiting for two hours and a half for some of the riders to make their appearance, I was startled by the noise of several little pigs running across the road and looking towards town I noticed a cloud of dust which finally developed into the person of Mr. Reynard driving his 45 lb. Singer as if running away from a wolf. The next man that came along was Mr. Bush, who was laboring very hard and complained of losing two spokes, but proceeded. After waiting two minutes more a Wolff came flying up the road in search of a Bush, which he found three minutes later. The next man that came along was "Hall right," riding in a fair condition. I waited about four minutes and then heard Johnson's voice shouting at the pigs, as there were several crossing the road at the time. The scratch men came along fifteen minutes later in a bunch with Alley leading. By this time Raynard passed me on his return journey and complained of having a cramp in his knees, but he looked to be in good condition, and as he peddled up the hill it seemed to me as if he would be the winner. Shortly after Wolff came along with a broken wheel. A few words with Wolff and he was away. Mr. Wolff is no doubt a road rider and deserves credit for the fast time over the first half of the race, which was completed in 1 hour and 20 minutes, making the fastest time to the point. However, if Mr. Wolff intends going in for track work he requires more heart before being able to compete against his rival, by whom he was so easily defeated on the 24th of May. Mr. Bush was the next man to come along, closely followed by Hall and Johnson, who were riding a fair race. In about ten minutes Alley, the first scratch man, could be seen coming along the road like a cyclone, closely followed by Tiedeman, who was riding a good race, but was outclassed by Alley, who won second place and the time prize in 3 hours and 7 minutes. Mr. Gibbons was the last of the scratch men to pass me on the return journey, being three and a half minutes behind Tiedeman. No doubt Mr. Gibbons is a strong road rider, but he rode in hard luck, having punctured his wheel twice on the return journey, otherwise I am of the opinion that he would have ranked among the first to arrive. Victoria is no doubt bringing out some able riders on the road, but the wheelmen of Victoria regret very much not being able to have a cinder path. However, during the next ten months we expect to have a track second to none on the coast and in advance of the coal dust city, which can boast of having three tracks. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the valuable space occupied.

"T. G. MOODY, Jr."

The winners in time and place are as follows:

	Place	Time
H. C. Raynard	1	3 hrs. 31 min. 36 sec.
F. E. Alley	2	3 hrs. 07 min. 17 sec.
Charles Bush	3	4 hrs. 06 min. 34 sec.

The consolation prize went to Hall. It was a keg of beer.

LACROSSE.

JAMES BAYS WIN AGAIN.

In the intermediate league the James Bays defeated the Nanaimos 6 goals to 1 at the Caledonia grounds on Saturday afternoon. The game was at times very fast, and but for some slowness in picking up the ball and passing and throwing nothing but praise could be given it. Schnoter, Miller and Smith did the scoring for the Bays, while Madill got the only goal for Nanaimo. After the game the victors entertained the visitors at supper and followed that with a smoking concert.

NO MATCH SATURDAY.

The Victoria and Vancouver teams will not play here on Saturday, as the Vancouver team wished to do, but it is probable that they will come down later in the season. The Victoria team have two reasons, both good ones, for not wishing to play on Saturday. In the first place several of them are still very sore, and secondly, they want to be in good condition for the match at Westminster on the 8th.

NOTES.

The Fountain and Victoria West clubs played a match at Victoria West on Saturday and the visitors won by a score of four straight goals. The Fountains play a very strong game.

The Beehive and Hackmen's lacrosse clubs play at the Caledonia grounds this afternoon.

The firemen have accepted the challenge of the boiler makers at the Albion Iron Works for a game of lacrosse three weeks form Saturday.

THE RING.

McAULIFFE AND GRIFFO.

New York, Aug. 27.—There will only be ten rounds to the boxing bout to-night at the Seaside Athletic Club at West Brighton between Jack McAuliffe, the American champion, and Young Griffo, the Australian, but all the same sporting circles are in a fever over the mill. The men will box at catchweights, and have been training hard. McAuliffe's friends do not doubt for a moment his ability to outpoint the Australian. Griffo, on the other hand, laughs as he always does, and says: "I have never cut loose since I have been in this country, even when I boxed Dixon. You Americans think you have a line on me, but it is a mistake. To-night you will find out what I can do." One thing is certain, and that is that Griffo has got in good physical condition for this meeting.

THE WHEEL.

GREAT CYCLING RACE.

Ample as is the accommodation for spectators at the Herne Hill grounds, says a London paper, it was found inadequate on Saturday for the requirements of the tens of thousands of people who were anxious to witness concluding stages of the twenty-four hours' cycling race, which had been commenced on Friday evening. The competition was the third for the Cuca challenge cup, and as F. W. Shorland, the winner on the two previous occasions, had only to score another victory to win the trophy outright, and was reported to be in excellent fettle for the task before him, it was fully expected he would accomplish something remarkable in the way of distance, anticipations, as it turned out, were fully realized. From the very commencement of the contest Shorland rode at a great pace, breaking records in fact from eleven to fifteen miles, an extraordinary thing to do in a long distance ride, and following this up by beating all previous English records from 101 miles, and all the world's records from the thirteenth hour to the finish of the race. For some hours after the start C. C. Fontain, of the Polytechnic C. C. and A. W. Horton, of the Catfor C. C., did their utmost to keep up with Shorland, and certainly succeeded to a very creditable extent, but it was soon apparent that Shorland held them safe, and at the expiration of twelve hours from the start, when Shorland had covered 248 miles 1,000 yards, he was more than five miles ahead of Fontain, while Horton was two miles farther off, and J. M. Petersen, Catford C. C., fourth, half a mile behind. From this point all doubt as to Shorland's ultimate victory may be said to have been dispelled, and the only question remaining was as to the distance he would cover in the time, and as to whether he would succeed in beating the record of 457 1-2 miles recently made in Paris by the French rider Huret. At the end of each hour Shorland was, as a rule, well in front of the Frenchman's performances, and was riding in the most satisfactory and promising manner. No other interest attached to the race; but this proved an immence attraction; and all through the day the ground was visited by thousands of spectators, who at the slightest excuse cheered Shorland in the most enthusiastic manner. At four p.m., Shorland had ridden 388 miles 288 yards. Chapple was next with 365 miles, Clarke third with 361 miles, and Petersen fourth with 360 miles. A little later Huret, whose records were beaten, made his appearance as one of the riders on a tandem, and assisted in pacing Shorland, a graceful compliment which thoroughly aroused the enthusiasm of the twenty thousand or so of spectators who were then present, and whose cheering nearly drowned the strains of the "Marseillaise" which was played by the band. About five o'clock the ground was so crowded that the officials deemed it advisable to have the outer gates closed and to refuse further admission, a proceeding which caused the assemblage of several thousand disappointed and excited people in the Burbage road, so that it was only with the greatest difficulty that persons wishing to leave the ground were enabled to do so. From time to time, however, information as to the progress of Shorland and the other riders was communicated to the crowd by one of the officials, who endeavored to comfort them with the assurance that they were seeing just as much as if they were inside. As the time for the finish drew near the excitement greatly increased, and when at about ten minutes to eight the Union Jack was hoisted on the flagstaff as indicating that the French record had been beaten there was a terrific burst of cheering, and immediately after another for Huret, who was still acting as pacemaker. Riding grandly, Shorland traveled at a great pace, and finally, when the time had expired, was found to have covered 460 miles 1,296 yards, having thus beaten the world's record by three miles and 56 yards. Clarke was fourth with 423 miles, Baley next with 406 miles, and Field covered 380 miles. At the conclusion the crowd swarmed over the track, and so great was the desire to get near and congratulate the winner, that it required the services of a number of police constables to escort him safely to his dressing tent. Shorland's only rest, other than what was necessary to change machines was one of nine minutes when he had been riding about twelve hours. Shorland having now won the cup three times, becomes the absolute possessor.

YACHTING.

ACCIDENT TO THE BRITANNIA.

London, Aug. 27.—In consequence of the capsizing in Portland roads of the Britannia's dingy, through which two of the crew were drowned, the Prince of Wales cancelled all the cutter's engagements on the western coast. The bodies of the drowned sailors were not recovered. The Central News is authority for the statement that the Britannia will land her guests at Torquay and proceed to Cowes, where she will go out of commission unless the Vigilant compels her to contest for the Cape May cup on September 9th. Captain Carter, of the Britannia, is deeply grieved at the loss of Mate Simons, one of the two men who were drowned in Portland roads. The captain declares he was his most useful officer.

HIS LUCKY PENNY.

A One Hundred Dollar Bill That Has Been Very Useful.

Bowlinggreen, Ky., Aug. 27.—Pierce Smith, a landscape painter of Gladesville, Va., has been here several days tracing a hundred dollar bill. Several years ago, while doing some work in the country, he lost or had taken from him a hundred dollar bill, which he afterward recovered. Then he returned to Gladesville and secured employment with a mining company, to which he claims he loaned $1200. While at work he was struck on the head. His mind became affected and he was sent to the asylum. He recovered and returned to Gladesville, to find that the company denied the loan. His papers had all disappeared. Among the bills loaned was the once lost one hundred dollar bill. Smith came here to ascertain if the bank from which he got the one hundred dollar bill, which he described, could help him. A perfect record of this was discovered, the bank making affidavit to that effect. The bank at Gladesville has a record of the same bill, and it is believed he will win. He walked both ways, because he said he had abundance of time.
